Vincent Van Gogh

by Ion Stangos

The name of the artist is Vincent Van Gogh and the name of the artwork is "Starry Night". Van Gogh was born in May 1853. He did the painting in 1889.

In the picture I can see mountains with many trees on them. Also, I can see a town. In front of the town there is a very old tree. I can see the sky, too. I can see the moon and many stars. The painting has a lot of movement in it. It has circular shapes, it is modern and it has dark colors.

Maybe Van Gogh was sad and tried to say it. When I'm looking at this picture I get sad because it has dark colors and shapes.

I like this artwork because it has nice shapes and a nice subject. I wouldn't put this artwork in my home. I can recognize this style of artwork and I like it.

by Paris Antonopoulos

The name of the artist is Salvador Dali. The name of the artwork is "The Persistence of Memory." The artist was born in 1904. The artwork was created in 1931. The painting has many melted clocks, one tree, one big shell, one mountain and many ants. The elements of the art are: dark colors, depth and lines. The artist is trying to say that it is very hot. I have feelings of sadness because the ants melted and died. I like this artwork because it has many clocks and it has a beautiful sea. I would put this artwork at home. I can recognize this style. It is surrealistic because Dali painted the things he was dreaming of.
