Special thanks to Ms. Tsekoura, Archelon, the Sea Turtle Protection Society of Greece

- What do the loggerhead sea turtles look like?
- How long have they been around?
- What do they eat?
- How many eggs does a female turtle lay?
- Are these sea turtles an endangered species?
- What can we do to help?

These were just some of the questions that Grade 4 students dealt with. First they read about the turtles. Then they made their own paper loggerhead sea turtle; they named it, gave a short description of it and mentioned what it was threatened by. Finally, two EFL sections gave a presentation on the turtles which was followed by a Q&A session. All fourth graders were given brochures offered by Archelon, the Sea Turtle Protection Society of Greece.
